New Broadway route approved

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has approved the city of Venice engineering firm of Granite City, informed Dr. Lee yesterday that if state approval is granted soon, bids for the relocating work could be let early in October with the work taking from nine months to one year to complete, depending upon the weather.

The city was ready to relocate Broadway one year ago when the Federal Department of Transportation demanded the 47 statement because 21 of an acre of Lee Park was to be used for the new route. The city had to show why it is necessary to utilize park land.

Attempts by the city to have the 47 declaration requirement waived were unsuccessful, thus causing the one-year delay.

The construction plans also call for connecting Broadway with a new approach to McKinley Bridge, Federal Aid Route 151 (the Great River Road) eventually will be extended south from the Granite City Army Installation and will link with the new bridge approach.

Driver hurt in crash

John Rachas, 22, of East St. Louis, was in satisfactory condition today at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, after his auto and the tractor-trailer of James Dickson, Culver, Ind., collided at Second Street and McCambridge Avenue in Madison at 1:05 a.m. today.

Rachas' car traveled 500 feet before stopping. Police reported Rachas was thrown from his vehicle and reportedly slid 100 feet on the pavement.

He was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was examined for cuts to his scalp and numerous abrasions and bruises. He was listed in poor condition here and was transferred to the St. Louis hospital.

Adopt Venice budget

The Venice City Council Tuesday night approved a 1973-74 city budget of $1,533,282, an increase of $303,326 over that of the previous year.

The Police Department budget was cut to $181,150, a decrease of $10,369. The appropriation allowed a $35 per month per man, or $420 per year, salary increase. This increase is approximately 5 percent of present salaries.

Mayor John E. Lee read a letter signed by 14 Venice police officers and addressed to the council requesting a $100 per month per man increase in chadling probationary patrolmen and civilian desk clerks, in addition to eight paid holidays and other benefits.

The police department proposal also requested that if the council did not grant all the requests, no increases be given at all until a meeting between the two groups can be scheduled.

The letter was distributed to members of the council and the mayor before the council meeting.

After a brief discussion the council passed the budget as originally prepared, commenting that the police proposals came too late.

A committee will meet with the police officers, however.

New budget items include $10,000 for demolition and destruction of dangerous buildings. A sum of $7,500 was budgeted for recreation.

Budget increases are: streets and alleys, up $27,273 to a total of $30,720; fees and salaries, up $11,112 to $27,332; legal up $3,686 to $10,598; insurance up $16,465 to $43,290; sanitary and health up $1,060 to $3,472; sewers up $27,426 to $120,000.

Audit up $25 to $675; garbage up $5,494 to $39,653; police pension up $5,973 to $40,218; library up $4,426 to $50,779; Illinois Municipal retirement fund up $5,500 to $23,000; civil defense up $1,116 to $2,918; underpass up $105,000 to $225,000.

GC schools to borrow

By MARION BARTOSIAK
Press-Record Staff Writer
The Granite City Board of Education authorized issuance of tax anticipation warrants totaling $400,000, if needed, during its meeting Tuesday night.

Victor Anderson, school comptroller, reported to the board that it may be required to borrow $350,000 for the educational fund and $100,000 for the building fund between Aug. 15 and Sept. 13.

If the warrants are issued, it will be the first time since 1963 that the district has been required to borrow funds in lieu of taxes to be received.

Anderson told the board that the educational fund should be down to about $52,350 at the end of July and any substantial receipt of tax funds is not expected until the first half of September.

The regular summer teachers payroll is $350,000 for a two-week period, Anderson said.

"This means that we will have two of these payrolls in the month of August," he explained, adding that "we will have three payrolls of $50,000 to $53,000 for non-certificated personnel, and we will also have a rather large bill list."

The building fund contains about $70,000, the comptroller said, and bills to be received in August may exceed that amount.

The tax warrants may not be required if the state treasurer makes sufficient tax payments or if state aid payments are received in time, he said.

Meanwhile the board formed a special committee to consider cutting the new budget after the tentative document is prepared.

In presenting a motion to form the committee, Norman Hall said the action could "afford relief to taxpayers."

Carl Macies commented that "The administration has been looking at some programs that may have to be cut back, though they are good programs."

B. J. Davis, superintendent, remarked, "The financial situation is getting tighter all the time. We should do this based on priorities rather than have a program slashed."

On the committee are Moore, chairman, Hall, Harold Davis, A. L. Metcalf and two administrators to be named.

Granite City's participation in a joint city-county project to extend Maryville Road from Ponton Road to Highway 162 is not a dead issue, Mayor Paul Schuler told the City Council Monday night.

The mayor said that even though the city's motor fuel tax fund is exhausted—with no possibility of financing the project from that source—there may be other ways to raise the city's $800,000 share of the cost.

Schuler said he hopes to arrange a meeting next week with state Department of Transportation officials to discuss possible avenues of financing.

Schuler said he and Alderman Emerald Dawes, chairman of the council's street and alley committee, will attend the conference.

"There are several directions in which we might go and I am certain we can devise some plan rather than see the project dropped," Schuler told council members.

The project appeared last two weeks ago when City Treasurer

Madison raises

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Pay raises of 5 1/2 percent were granted to all Madison city employees by the City Council Tuesday night. The increases will cost the city $16,533 per year.

The raises were granted retroactive to May 1. A total of $4,089 in retroactive lump sum payments will be given to the city employees in their Aug. 15 checks.

Annual raises included $8,427 for police personnel, $6,408 for street, alley, refuse and sewer workers, $679 to finance an accounting employee and $540 for custodial and secretarial services.

The increases did not meet several requests made by a committee of policemen who had presented a letter to the city administration asking for nine holidays rather than the present six, overtime pay rather than compensation pay offered, and increased longevity pay. All the demands were rejected.

Mayor Mike Sasyk said one request, allowing police representatives to meet with administration officials when the budget is prepared and to evaluate the city's financial situation, should be granted. He said the request came too late this year and should be allowed next year.

Sasyk said the city was limited to giving the 5 1/2 percent because of a restricted financial situation. He said federal revenue sharing is the only thing that has helped the city maintain services at their former levels without increasing taxes.

The council appointed Albert Hudzik, 22, of 829 Greenwood St., Madison, the acting comptroller. On Sept. 1, he will become the city comptroller when Lester Firtos, who presently holds that position, leaves to become comptroller in the office of Willard V. Portell.

clerk of the circuit court at Edwardsville.

Hudzik graduated with a bachelor of science degree in accounting last month from the University of Illinois. He has been a lifelong resident of Madison.

Also appointed was John Duko who will replace Pete Skundrich Aug. 1 as building inspector. Skundrich submitted his resignation last week because of other commitments.

The council authorized Mayor Mike Sasyk to enter into a contract with the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (SIMAPC) to prepare maps and plans for city zoning. After a zoning plan has been approved, a zoning ordinance for the city is to be prepared.

The estimated cost of preparing the plan is $4,000 with the city and SIMAPC dividing the cost equally.

The Quad-City Navy Mothers' Club was granted permission to hold its annual Sailor Boy Tag Days in Madison Sept. 27 and 28 with funds raised going to charity.

The comptroller was requested to advertise for bids for 2,000 tons of bituminous surfacing materials to be used for the city's street resurfacing project. After the meeting, the aldermen met informally to discuss streets which should be given priorities in the program.

An appropriation of $36,000 in federal revenue sharing funds for paving Ponton Road from Franklin Avenue to Nameoki Road was approved by the City Council Monday night, along with a plan to resurface some sections of four other streets, also with revenue sharing funds.

Council members also agreed to call for bids on the Ponton Road project at the same time as those for other projects which are to be designed for sections of Edison Avenue, Grand Avenue, State Street and Rock Road.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell is to furnish specifications for the latter four projects for which a total cost of $139,000 has been estimated.

Portell told the council he would send details of the street improvement proposals to the street and alley committee and to City Clerk Robert Stevens so that they may be called as soon as possible.

The $36,000 for Ponton Road and the estimated $139,000 for the other four improvements represent a total of $175,000 in revenue sharing funds and will be the first street improvement projects to be financed with those funds.

The City Council budgeted $200,000 in revenue sharing funds for street improvements after it was informed two weeks ago that the city's motor fuel tax fund is exhausted and that no further street work could be financed out of that account.

The council Monday night authorized Mayor Paul Schuler to sign a contract with G. L. Tarlton Co. of St. Louis for construction of the city's secondary sewage treatment plant.

Status report on P-R changeover

Napoleon had Waterloo. Nixon had Watergate. The Press-Record had mid-July 1973. But there are better days ahead soon regarding clarity of words and pictures in the newspaper.

Readers have been remarkably patient despite several quality problems encountered while new equipment is broken in and new printing skills are learned.

The transfer from a hot metal process to photocomposition is irrevocable but does not signify acceptance of a worse product. The sweeping mechanical changeover has gone well in some respects and badly in a few glaring instances that are being dealt with rapidly.

Printing quality and legibility are expected to not only match but exceed previous standards in news, photos and advertising text and illustrations. Because of this fact, continued patience is requested.

Strong emphasis is continuing on local news and there is vigorous editorial leadership on community topics.

In addition to the inclusion of additional county and state governmental coverage on decisions which have direct impact here, more space also is being devoted to within-the-Quad-Cities articles and pictures than at any time in the Press-Record's 70 years of public service.

Countless detailed reports on people, groups and occurrences are presented here and nowhere else. The dramatic robber-and-burglary story of July 12, for example, appeared in the Press-Record exclusively, then and since then.

So, there is no "new" or "old" Press-Record in that sense. We'll always keep a bright spotlight on local events, and the end product this summer and fall, we are confident, will be as visually attractive as it is fact-filled.

Press-time has been troublesome on several days. But we have never missed an edition entirely, a statement that neither the Post-Dispatch nor Globe-Democrat has been able to make during their current changeover.

Are we trying hard to persuade readers that there is a "silver lining" in the present dark cloud of production problems? Yes, because we are sure there is.

Sharing forecast a solution for the Press-Record's current difficulties, we'll stop our "status reports" at that point. A "status report" at that point, we won't venture any predictions on that.

DOWNTOWN DOWNPOUR Monday night provided wading fun for these youngsters but flooded some stores and basements in the vicinity of 16th Street and Edison Avenue (between, looking north). With more than 1 1/2 inches of rain falling in a span of a few minutes, and the pump station at the city treatment plant suffering a breakdown, stormwater topped sidewalks and caused autos to stall at a number of Quad-City area locations. (Press-Record Photo)

Planner may seek construction ban

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (SIMAPC) has begun research for a drainage study to identify drainage problems in the four-county area and to suggest alternative measures for solving the problems. Emphasis is to be placed on construction bans and other solutions not requiring the construction of ditches, levees or other facilities, according to SIMAPC officials. Jackie Brummer, project planner, explained this week that the study of the American Bottoms and Hillside Drainage areas, which includes the Quad-Cities, will have first priority in the program and alternative solutions for solving drainage problems here, including model ordinances for the county and governmental bodies to consider, will be completed long before studies are completed for other portions of the study area—Madison, St. Clair, Monroe and Randolph counties. She already has requested information and maps on drainage problems from officials of Nameoki and Chouteau townships to assist in the study. Gathering of drainage information for the American Bottoms alone is expected to take about nine months, she said. "After we have identified all the drainage problems, we will move into the planning stage, starting with alternative solutions with an emphasis on non-structural, preventive, methods," the planner said, explaining construction bans and legislation to restrict the blockage of natural drainage are preferred over "structural" solutions such as drainage ditches, because of cost factors. She said the final step normally would be the completion of model ordinances to solve the problems and avoid construction which would further complicate the problems, "but since the state is starting model ordinances now, we are all working on them at one time." She explained that Thelma Renshaw, technical planning advisor for the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs, who works from the SIMAPC offices, now is in the model ordinance stage for the state and is working with the drainage survey project planner and the two SIMAPC engineers who have been assigned part-time to assist in the survey.

GCHS-North presented steel sculpture

A large steel sculpture entitled "Transition" was presented by Granite City Steel Co. to the Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night for permanent display at the new Granite City High School-North.

The presentation was made by R. J. Schliebe, sales supervisor for the firm, and acceptance was by Donald Stuebe, board president.

The sculpture, designed by a St. Louis artist, is on display at the First Granite City National Bank where it will remain until the school is completed in the fall.

Schliebe, who said the work was part of one of his advertising projects, presented the background "in this very unique work of art."

"The sculpture dates back 10 years -- to 1963 -- when Granite City Steel had a brand-new continuous galvanizing line that gave us a lot of additional capacity for galvanized steel. At last we were able to get into the flat galvanized market -- whereas previously, with our old sheet mills, we had been limited to corrugated culvert and roofing products.

"But we knew that this sophisticated market demanded tight zinc adherence and, particularly, soft-forming workability. So we named our product 'Softform,' and it became advertising's job to communicate some kind of proof of the workability of this product to the sheet metal trade."

"Our agency, then, recommended a most dramatic way to demonstrate Softform's workability -- create a sculpture of Softform and, in so doing, use the same critical fabrication techniques employed by the trade. We bought the idea, and Rodney Winfield, a noted St. Louis artist and sculptor, was commissioned to do the job."

"Winfield submitted a sketch, we approved it, and he went to work -- both in his own basement studio and in our sheet metal shop. He used 20-gauge galvanized Softform, plus 1/4" plate, 20-gauge cold rolled and corrugated galvanized Stoughton roofing.

After several weeks of work, the result was our Softform sculpture."

Schliebe displayed a two-page ad, featuring a formal portrait of Winfield and his sculpture and several shots of his fabricating process.

"The ad ran in The Wall Street Journal and Business Week and in several metalworking publications during 1963. From every standpoint, including reader ship, inquiry, reaction in the field and product acceptance, the sculpture and its advertising campaign achieved their objectives and were judged a success."

"As a work of art, the Softform sculpture (named 'Transition' in an employee contest) has been displayed twice. At an Art and Architecture show in Columbia, Mo., by a chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and at an oil and sculpture show at the Artists Guild in St. Louis, where it was termed "an outstanding work" and "large and impressive" by newspapers.

"In conclusion, I speak for the management and employees of Granite City Steel when I say that I am pleased to present 'Transition' to your board for display in the new High School North. I can think of no more appropriate permanent home for a steel sculpture... commissioned by a steel manufacturer... than a high school with the name 'Steelers'."

Dr. Michaeloff lectures at workshop

Dr. Goni Michaeloff, chairman of the English-speech department at Granite City High School-North, was guest lecturer at a 10-day workshop which closed yesterday at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The workshop, "The Newspaper in the Classroom," was presented by the SIUE School of Journalism and the Office of Continuing Education. Dr. Michaeloff's topic, "Newspapers and the English Teacher," introduced methods and procedures in the use of newspapers in the high school English curriculum which included more than 100 examples in the areas of English grammar and composition, speech drama, journalism and developmental reading.

She said the Granite City Press-Record was a frequent source in the classroom and helped stimulate student interest in community and state thoughts of today.

One example presented by Dr. Michaeloff was based upon her teaching of American literature. "Students respond to the use of newspapers in this course by relating their own goals to those dreams and ideals in all of American literary history," she said.

"Students use visual, written and oral communication to express their critical ideas about American literature in the past, present and future. 'Students concluded that newspapers offer a 'literature in action' approach to the study of American literature."

Severe storm hits area

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer
A brief but severe storm in the Quad-City area Monday night was responsible for numerous electrical and telephone failures, flooded streets and other problems.

Civil Defense issued a tornado alert at 6:15 p.m. but no funnel clouds were sighted.

About 200 customers were without power for periods of between two and 10 hours as tree limbs fell on wires and lightning struck several transformers, causing them to short, according to an Illinois Power Co. spokesman.

Department which was unable to receive calls for about one and a half hours, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The basement of the City Hall, including the Police Station, was flooded by about one-fourth inch of water.

Water which flooded the basement of the southwestern Bell Telephone Co. office at 21st Street and Edison Avenue was responsible for many telephone relays failing, according to a spokesman for the utility.

About 400 customers were without telephone service at the peak and few had been restored Wednesday morning, the spokesman said.

Half of the telephone outages were caused by downed or wet cables in the area while the other half lost service when coils in the Granite City office either became wet or were removed by telephone workers to keep them from becoming wet. Twelve phone repairmen worked throughout Monday night and Tuesday.

Those who were disconnected would have lost service anyway," the spokesman explained. Most office repairs were completed late Wednesday morning and about 85 per cent of out-of-service telephones had been reconnected by Wednesday night.

Several fires were reported during the storm as lightning struck transformers and at least one house, that of Evelyn Gary, 2421 State St., which was struck at about 8:15 p.m. The lightning started the victim in an electric clock, causing about $50 damage.

Shorted transformers requiring fire equipment were reported at Namooki Road and Garfield Avenue and at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues. Other calls included power lines down at 21st Namooki Road, on Louisa Street, and at 45 Villa Drive.

A manhole cover which was moving near Granite City Dodge, Inc., caused unwarranted fears of a natural gas leak. The line down in the 2100 block of Namooki Road fell on a car, it was reported.

Firemen also were called to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 2 a.m. Wednesday when a fire alarm siren malfunctioned, setting off the alarm system.

Lightning struck a small pump station of the Granite City Sewage Treatment Plant at the Granite City Army installation at about 6 p.m., halting power to the treatment plant. The automatic sewer bypass went into effect and raw sewage was dumped into the Mississippi River until about 6:30 p.m. when Army installation electricians restored power to the plant.

The Granite City Street Department called five workers to work Monday night to help remove tree limbs on streets and sidewalks and clean drainage basins. Sewers reportedly backed up into some houses until the pumps at the treatment plant were returned into operation.

Numerous street intersections were flooded during the storm, including 20th Street and Edison Avenue where some cars became stalled in the water, causing a traffic backup.

In Madison, six street department workers were on duty until 10 p.m. cleaning catch basins and removing tree limbs from the streets. Venice reported no storm-related problems except a few flooded basements.

Power outages were reported scattered with a section along Route 162, east of Lake Drive, leaving about 50 to 75 customers without power most of the night.

Wind and lightning caused three different breaks in that area. The Nameoki Town Board held its regular meeting in the Town Hall on Route 162 by the light of a lantern and several flashlights. Power there was not restored until 11 p.m.

About 50 customers near Waterman Avenue and on Dale Avenue reported being without service about two-and-a-half hours. Five or six power lines burned out in Madison, causing outages to small areas. Crews worked most of the night to restore normal power.

Rainfall for the 24 hour period which ended at 8 a.m. Wednesday measured 1.71 inches with most falling from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

The rain caused the halting of sports events throughout the area. At the Wilson Park lights ball diamond, a power line fell onto the field after it had been cleared.

Pine trees were downed by the wind in the park. Gardens were reported damaged at numerous homes as high winds pulled corn stalks and other plants out of the ground.

One of the more humorous reports during the storm was as motorists were turned back at 23rd Street and Cleveland Boulevard by boys rowing a boat in the flooded intersection.

Huber elected to Owens-Illinois Post

The election of James A. Cobb, Peter J. Flagg, Thomas M. Huber and Max C. Powell as vice-presidents of Owens-Illinois Inc. was announced in Toledo, Ohio, by Edwin D. Dodd, president of the company.

Huber's wife is a former Granite Cityman.

The four will continue in their present positions with the company, Dodd said. Cobb now is general manager of primary operations for the Forest Products Division. Flagg is general manager of box plant operations for the division; Huber is director of European operations for the International Division; and Powell is in charge of overseas forest products activities for the International Division.

The four executives have been vice-presidents of their respective divisions.

Huber, a native of Highland and a 1941 graduate of the University of Illinois, joined O-I as a project engineer at Alton in 1948 and in 1953 became quality and specifications supervisor of the Alton glass container plant. He served four years as vice-president and general manager of O-I de Cuba until the company's Cuban plant was expropriated in 1960.

He became vice-president and general manager of Durbor, O-I's Belgian affiliate, in 1961 and held that position until he moved to Venezuela in 1965 as vice-president and general manager of the O-I subsidiary there. He became vice president of the International Division in charge of European operations in 1968 with headquarters in Geneva. He moved his headquarters to Toledo in 1972.

Brother of Mitchell woman dies in Ozark plane crash

The brother of a Mitchell woman was among those killed in the crash of Ozark Air Lines Flight 600 in a wooded area near the University of Missouri at St. Louis campus at 5:47 p.m. Monday.

John Glass, 30, of Cape Girardeau, the brother of Mrs. Hubert (Betty) Futch, 45 Moorland Drive, Mitchell, was among those who never completed their flight to St. Louis as the plane crashed just two and three-fourth miles south of Lambert-St. Louis International Airport. Thirty-six persons were killed and eight are surviving.

Glass was coming to St. Louis from Cape Girardeau to become district sales manager of Ortho Pharmaceutical Co. He and his wife, Barbara, did not have any children, but Mrs. Glass reportedly is pregnant.

Mrs. Glass heard about the crash on news reports and knew her husband was on the flight. She made numerous calls to St. Louis hospitals from Cape Girardeau, attempting to learn if her husband was alive, but was unable to receive information due to the confusion which always accompanies a major disaster.

Mr. Glass earned a bachelor's degree in physical education from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau in 1968 and played varsity football there. He taught for one year at a Catholic high school in Belleville.

Surviving besides his widow and sister, are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Glass of East Prairie, and a brother, David Glass of Edwardsville.

Alton, after 6 p.m. Friday and the funeral will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Ambrose Church, Godfrey, with burial at St. Patrick's Cemetery, Godfrey.

Mrs. Doyle, GC native, dies

Mrs. Esther J. Doyle, 67, of 717 Taylor Drive, Godfrey, died suddenly at 11:55 p.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital where she was taken an hour earlier. She was a native and former resident of Granite City.

Mrs. Doyle was employed in social services at Alton State Hospital for 15 years before retiring. She was a member of St. Ambrose Church in Godfrey, its Altar Society, the Daughters of Isabella and the Royal Neighbors of Granite City.

She is survived by her husband, Merville Doyle; three sons, Don Doyle of Alton, Frank Doyle of Washington, Mo., and Merville Edward Doyle Jr. of Des Plaines; a brother, Frank Morris of Granite City; 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

She will be at the Gent Funeral Home, 2400 State St.,

Agreed to consider a plan by Assistant City Attorney Eric Robertson for regular inspection of city walks after Robertson said the city can cut the city's losses in law suits filed by persons who claim to have suffered injuries from falls on sidewalks. A regular inspection plan by the city places the burden of proof of a faulty sidewalk on the plaintiff, he said.

LET'S TALK Nobody has to be perfect

By REV. W. LEE TRUMAN
Copley News Service

One of the major lessons of life that seem so hard for so many to learn can be summed up in three little words, "Nobody is perfect." The other side of that lesson is, "Nobody has to be perfect."

It is hard to believe that people can live their whole lives and not observe these two lessons and their application to their living, happiness and well-being.

Granted, it would be wondertful not to have any faults, but think about it for a moment. We would never have anything to regret, or to apologize for, or to hide or get defensive about. We could do any job we were asked to do because we would do it perfectly. We would never have to worry about being capable of the assignment or if we had the time or energy to do it.

If we could not be perfect in every respect, it would help if we could reach perfection in some one thing. But even that small favor seems to be denied us. Those of us who have given our lives to one vocation for which we have spent many arduous years preparing know only too well how far short we have fallen of that ideal. We may have held out this small hope of perfection before ourselves as a tantalizing lure through the years, but with no glimmer of success.

And when in addition to this, we persist in making stupid little mistakes like forgetting the name of someone we have known for years or saying the wrong thing in a meeting or not capping a pen when we put it in the pocket of our best shirt, it would not be too hard to stir up a giant-sized feeling of depression. With this kind of self-honesty, it is easy to get to thinking that you are a failure and really not much use to anyone.

One thing that feeds this kind of feeling is the suggestion that other people do have the kind of faults that we have. And of course they do not. But the truth is that they have a lot of faults that we do not have, known and unknown.

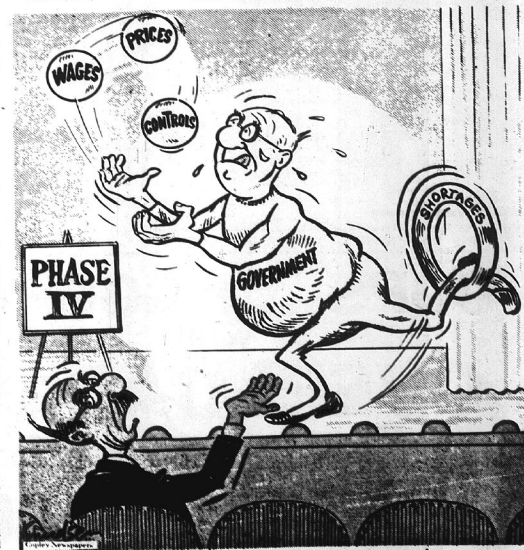

If you really want to get right down to the serious business of counting human faults, assuming that you had access to that classified information, I suspect that you could add up a few thousand shortcomings to put on almost everyone's ledger. And imperfections aplenty could be found in the areas in which they are presumably achieving the most.

Some brave souls have been willing to admit their failings. Their confessions give me a good deal of comfort. I take heart from someone who has the expertise such as Henri Poincaré, the great mathematician who said, "I am absolutely incapable of adding without mistakes."

Somerset Maugham, the world famous author, wrote, "I often think how much easier life would have been for me and how much time I would have saved if I had known the alphabet. I can never tell where I and J stand without saying, G. H. to myself first. I don't know whether P comes before R or after, or where T comes in all this, and the alphabet has to this day remained something that I have never been able to get into my head."

So why don't we all relax? Nobody expects us to be perfect, and we could not even be perfect if they did expect this of us. Why not settle down to be real bona fide human beings with just about as many faults as the next fellow, but having a great time working at the business of being the persons that God intended for us to be.

As a banner that one of my junior high confirmation students made said, "Have patience with me, God is not finished with me yet." I would only add, "And for the same reason have patience with yourself."

Opera to be staged at MRF

An innovation in programming will be added to the Mississippi River Festival this weekend when the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert version of Puccini's opera "Madama Butterfly" at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

The performance, which will mark the first opera in the festival's five-year history, will be conducted by Music Director Walter Susskind with five renowned vocal soloists from the opera world. Soloists will include Lorna Hayward as Butterfly, Sheila Nadler as Suzuki, Yahan Khanzadian as Pinkerton, Ryan Edwards as Sharpless and Jeral Becker as Goro.

The opera, which will be presented in concert version without staging or costumes, tells the story of the faithful love and tragic end of Madama Butterfly (Cio-Cio San) who falls in love with Lieutenant Pinkerton, a U.S. naval officer.

Flood-damaged farms eligible for aid

Flood-damaged farms in Madison County may be eligible for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Measures (ECM) Program to help repair damage, Charles C. Leach, chairman of the Madison County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, said this week.

Emergency conservation assistance authorized by the secretary of agriculture, is designated to rehabilitate farmland and to restore conservation measures damaged by natural disaster.

Under the program USDA may share with producers up to 50 per cent of the costs for carrying out such practices as removing debris from farm land, grading, shaping, releveling or similar measures, re-establishing permanent cover, re-establish waterways and critical areas seeding and other installations.

Requests for assistance under the ECM program must be made at the county ASCS office, Old Alton Road, Box 246, Edwardsville, by Sept. 30.

Applications should be made for participation before work begins.

Participants will receive their payments shortly after the work is completed and checked. The Army Corps of Engineers will handle all requests for levee repair or restoration. This includes levee districts and private individual levees. Any one with levee damage due to flooding should contact the Corps of Engineers immediately. ASC agents said.

Gov. Daniel Walker will serve as the 1973 Roundup program chairman of the Boy Scouts of America. It was announced today by Melvin L. Gillie, president of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The Governor said, "The objective of our Roundup is twofold: one to secure a commitment from every unit leader throughout the State of Illinois to improve his program proficiency."

"Second, to offer the Scouting program to an increasing number of youth members. Several carefully selected recognition items will be awarded in my behalf to youth and adult members who achieved their commitments."

Every Cub Scout and Boy

Scout who recruits a new member during the Roundup will be awarded a special multi-colored emblem.

Leaders of units that meet a new member goal will receive a china coffee mug bearing the Governor's seal.

Every Explorer that recruits a new member will receive a citation signed by Governor Walker.

Units fulfilling new member pledges between Sept. 1 and Dec. 15 will be awarded citations signed by the Governor for display in the unit meeting places.

Stress water purity

SPRINGFIELD — As many as 75 per cent of the earth is composed of water.

For this reason, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's Division of Water Pollution Control has a lot to do with water.

The division is the largest in the agency, employing 184 people statewide. Water pollution control also is the most established program in the agency.

The Division of Water Pollution Control is concerned with waste water, and that the water flowing from industries and municipalities is properly treated.

Bill Pie, manager of the division, explained his department's task in more simple terms. "Our goal is to eliminate water pollution in Illinois."

Currently in Illinois, there are 1,800 sewage treatment plants, to help purify the water. As of July 1, 1970, there were 1,400 certified operators in treatment plants across the state. As of Feb. 28, 1973, the number has risen to 1,918.

"Water is one of the first concerns of pollution," Pie stated. "That is the reason for our large number of employees."

Diseases that are attributable to polluted water range from upset stomach and common communicable diseases to typhoid fever and even polio virus.

Pie explained the problems his division faces in combating water pollution. "The industrial problem is bad because of the variety. Human waste is a problem because of the quantity. Domestic sewage is pretty much the same, one place or another. On the other hand, industrial waste varies considerably."

An example of this is pesticide products which are available in 57,000 varieties. If misused and allowed to enter streams and rivers, they can be dangerous to animals, plants, and people.

The Division of Water Pollution Control divides the state of Illinois by river basins. Samples of water are taken from the 15 major river basins at 630 different monitoring stations. The water is checked regularly for 7 components. Quarterly, water quality is checked for 22 different components.

Pie divided the work his division does into three major areas: planning and grants, permits and operator training, and surveillance and enforcement.

Planning consists of developing better and cheaper solutions for the problems of water pollution. Grants are a means of lowering the cost of sewage treatment plants.

Permits are given for new sewage treatment plants that meet regulations. Operators of treatment plants must take short courses and seminars before they are certified.

Surveillance consists of taking samples of water from rivers and then running tests on the samples. If the water doesn't meet standards set by the Pollution Control Board, the polluter is notified of a possible enforcement case. If the situation is not changed, the case is turned over to the attorney general.

Like other divisions of the EPA, the Division of Water Pollution Control offers variances to those who cannot immediately comply with PCB regulations. This applies to industries and individuals from prosecution for a year at a time.

Public support for combating water pollution varies, Pie believes. "Some people say we are too harsh, others say we are not harsh enough. Industries used to fight pollution enforcement and threaten to leave the area. Now, because of federal laws, there is no place to go."

Pie sees money as the critical factor facing his division. "Money is the main problem. We have the technology to get at the problem. We have the resources. It's just that our supply of money is not adequate."

"We are trying to get the best mileage out of our resources. As water quality standards are beginning to improve, we will be much better off in the future."

Pollution control is here to stay

SPRINGFIELD — Summer is finally here and daily we become a little more aware of our environment. Flowers are blooming and our lawns are green.

The Environmental Protection Agency came about through the Illinois Environmental Protection Act, effective July 1, 1970.

The Act itself provided that unified statewide program be established to "restore, protect, and enhance the quality of the environment."

Besides establishing the EPA, the Act also created the Pollution Control Board which sets environmental control standards and conducts hearings pertaining to violations of the Act, and the Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality which investigates problems and sets up studies and programs relating to environmental protection.

The EPA is responsible for collecting information, conducting experiments, operating surveillance and inspection programs, and investigating violations of the Environmental Protection Act.

The EPA is centralized in Springfield, with four offices here, and other regional offices in Collinsville, Chicago, Marion, and Rockford.

Experiments and tests for the EPA are conducted at the agency's three labs located at Chicago, Champaign, and Carbondale.

Statewide, the EPA employs 485 people, 60 per cent of whom are engineers. This does not include surveillance people who generally work out of their homes.

According to Ron O'Connor, manager of public information, the EPA employs the highest percentage of professional people of any state office in Illinois.

O'Connor sees a change in attitude toward environmental control from the public in the two and one half years the EPA has been in existence.

"In the past, there was a tendency for business and industry to look at interest in the environment as a flash-in-the-pan. In the last year, they have come to realize that pollution control is going to be around."

The EPA is broken down into five major divisions: Air Pollution Control, Water Pollution Control, Land Pollution Control, Division of Public Water Supplies, and the newly formed Noise Pollution Control.

One might ask what form of pollution is most prevalent in Illinois. O'Connor explained that pollution depends on the area involved. For example, in a large city, it might be air pollution, whereas in a small community it could be water pollution.

He pointed out that water pollution is more common nationally than any other form of pollution. "Indians had the perfect solution for water pollution, whereas in a small community it could be water pollution."

Concerning land pollution, O'Connor stated, "We always took it for granted that we could drop waste somewhere and not worry about it. Sanitary land fills aren't a good solution, but currently it's the best we've got."

O'Connor stressed that modern technology is causing many of our pollution problems. For example, tin cans, plastic articles, and paper materials all add considerably to the amount of pollution found in our environment.

Jack Marco, the assistant to the director of the EPA, explained that the biggest problem the agency faces currently is the granting program concerning sewage treatment plants.

In the past, the federal government would grant 75 per cent of the money needed, with the city to provide the other 25 per cent.

The EPA would then step in asking the city to accept only 55 per cent from the federal government, and the state would then provide 25 per cent toward the total.

Marco pointed out that through this means, the federal money could be spread farther, and more sewage treatment plants could be built.

But now, under new federal guidelines, a city must take the full 75 per cent. This means fewer projects will be started.

State doesn't take breathing for granted

SPRINGFIELD — Most of us take the air we breathe for granted. The division of Air Pollution Control of the Environmental Protection Agency does not.

The division of Air Pollution Control, one of five pollution branches of the EPA, observes air quality throughout the state, issues permits for construction and operation of air pollution control equipment, and maintains a continuing review of standards and regulations.

According to John Roberts, manager of the Air Pollution Control division, 115 people are employed statewide in the air pollution control program, plus 7 federally funded workers.

Support also comes from the 3 EPA laboratories located at Chicago, Champaign and Carbondale, and from the attorney general who handles legal problems of the division. Other resources of the division include the Pollution Control Board which employs one-third of its time on the problems of air pollution, and the Institute for Environmental Quality which spends several hundred thousand dollars on research for ways of solving the problem of air pollution.

Roberts explained that his division works with local agencies to help combat the problem of air pollution. In Peoria, for example, the division provides the monitoring equipment whereas the operation of the equipment is handled by the local branch of Building and Zoning.

"We are well on our way toward resolving air problems," Roberts stated. "We understand the problems involved and we believe that our regulations will get the job done."

"Through surveillance, we are getting the industries to make necessary investments in pollution control. Over the past three or four years, the air has definitely gotten better."

The major problems of air pollution, Roberts related, result from industries. Incineration, and the burning of coal which releases sulphur dioxide, are the major contributors of air pollution.

Car exhaust is not as big a problem as many people believe, Roberts pointed out. "Cars present a significant problem but not a dominant one. Cars are often blamed unfairly for our amount of air pollution."

Roberts believes the biggest problem his division faces is getting industries to install control equipment and maintain it everyday.

"Right now it is not profitable for a company to install the equipment, nor does it increase production. We are making headway, though. What we need is the voluntary cooperation of the industries."

Roberts feels that his division has the backing of the people of Illinois. "We have public support by and large; but the trend isn't fast enough even though it is going in the right direction."

"We need more uniform control... all must do the job, not just those with public conscience. The problem is with companies that don't want to do the job. They'd rather spend money on lawyers than on pollution control."

"The majority supports the program because they know the public wants it," he added. There is an emergency air program, Roberts explained, in case the pollution in the air reaches a dangerous level. All significant polluters are required to have on file emergency procedures and guidelines.

"Half of our division is devoted to surveillance," Roberts stressed. "We put out people and resources where the pollution is, we don't go by area."

"Our focus is almost entirely on Chicago and other urban areas. Over half of our resources are used in Chicago. The pollution problem is due relatively to the density of the population."

PIPELINE PERMIT
On May 11, 1972, U.S. Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton announced he would grant a permit for a trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Mayfield, Stills, Goldboro on festival bill

Pop entertainers at the Mississippi River Festival next week will range from Curtis Mayfield of "Superfly" fame on Tuesday, July 31, to folk-rock singer Stephen Stills on Aug. 1 and on to multi-faceted country-folk singer Bobby Goldsboro on Friday, Aug. 3.

Goldsboro's concert will replace the originally scheduled performance by John Granite City Press-Record
Thurs., July 26, 1973, Page 18

Denver. Each of the week night concerts will begin at 8:30 p.m. at the festival site at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville.

Mayfield is known as a "legend in contemporary music" due to the numerous awards and nominations he has received. His four Grammy nominations include "Gypsy Woman," "I've Been Trying," "Keep on Pushing" and "I'm So Proud."

In addition his soundtrack for "Superfly" was selected as Soundtrack Album of the Year and "Freddie's Dead" (from "Superfly") was one of the biggest hits of 1972. Among his other awards are Best Continuous Performance by a Male Performer presented by the National Association of Television and Radio Announcers.

Mayfield's opening act will be Gene Anderson and the International Hookup.

The following night, the festival sounds will quiet down from Mayfield's driving rhythms to the peaceful sounds of Stephen Stills with Manassas. Stills' most famous recordings are those he made with Crosby, Stills and Nash and with Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young such as "Woodstock," "Ohio" and "Marrakech Express."

Since forming his own band Manassas the group has hit the charts with "Isn't It About Time."

The week's pop concerts conclude on Friday, Aug. 3, with the performance by Goldsboro who will be backed up by a 14-piece orchestra. Since his first hit in 1964 entitled "See The Funny Clown," he has recorded a continuous succession of hit songs, captivating "pop"; "easy-listening" and "country" audiences with equal success. His biggest hit, "Honey," was the best-selling single in the world for 1968. Other top songs, many of which he has written, include "Voodoo Woman," "With Pen In Hand," "Autumn of My Life," "Little Things" and "Watchin' Scotty Grow."

In addition to frequent television appearances on such programs as Mike Douglas and The Tonight Show, he now has his own nationally-syndicated "Bobby Goldsboro Show."

Concert goers are being reminded that the 1973 Mississippi River Festival season will involve an extensive effort on the part of the university and festival em-

Nameoki Board meets-by lantern light

Power failure during Monday night's storm plunged the Nameoki Township Hall into darkness just before the Town Board's meeting, but the meeting was held by the light of flashlights and a lantern.

The board signed a contract with Cohen-Nagel Associates, architects, St. Louis, to design additions to the Town Hall. Included was a $600 down payment for the work.

William Schooley, township attorney, gave a legal opinion that the agreement was a standard contract and could be signed.

The proposed $30,000 expansion will provide additional office space by adding 20 feet to the rear of the present office section. A new 20 foot by 60 foot addition also is planned which could be used as a courtroom and meeting room. The improvements will be financed by federal revenue sharing.

Wantsell read a letter he wrote to Kenneth Gieson, chairman of the board's environmental control committee, and Eugene Gargac, chairman of the road and bridge committee, requesting their committees meet jointly and prepare an environmental cleanup program which will include the hiring of additional workers and the purchase of new equipment.

A total of $50,000 has been appropriated from revenue sharing funds for the project which would include limb pickup, street sweeping, gutter cleaning and other projects.

Another letter was read from Albert Bell, highway commissioner, instructing Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab, engineers, to begin planning for widening and improving Straitsford Lane, a portion of Mockingbird Lane and part of Country Place.

The board previously approved planning for the improvements from Maryville Road to the Carroll Road railroad crossing.

A letter from Bell to Mal Landfill was read requesting a $501 reimbursement to the township for repairs to Bend Road caused when a large earthmover left the roadway and went into the edge of Horseshoe Lake June 19.

Wantsell reported the Illinois terminal railroad has renewed its offer to lease a deserted 17 mile right-of-way from Granite City to Edwardsville for 10 years at $1,000 per year. He said he will propose that the Madison County Board accept the offer at the board's Aug. 15 meeting. Wantsell is a County Board member.

If the offer is accepted, Wantsell said he plans to call a meeting of all governmental bodies involved and all service clubs and interested groups to "receive input for its use."

He said the right-of-way would be suitable for parts, a bicycle trail and a nature trail.

He reported that Darryl Reynolds, who was constructing a home on Breckenridge Lane in Pontoon Beach, has been ordered by the county to halt construction of the home and has been given 90 days to remove the basement already constructed or to provide drainage around the basement.

At the advice of Assistant State's Attorney Donald Smith, the building permit for the house was revoked as it was alleged the home would block a natural drainage ditch.

The auditors were informed that the final bill for construction of a new concrete bridge in State Park Place was $71,000 of which the township and Madison County are to divide the cost. The township previously appropriated $30,000 from revenue sharing for its first payment on the bridge. The remainder is to be paid within the next few years.

It was reported that materials have been ordered to convert a new truck into a rabies control vehicle. A cage is to be attached to the truck bed.

Only one bid was received for road materials. The bid, from Midwest Blacktop Road Inc., Collinsville, was opened and was referred to the road and bridge committee and held for a recommendation.

Wantsell said he is preparing a report on drainage problems in the township to present to representatives of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission. SIMAPAC is making a drainage survey of the Quad-City area. Wantsell pinpointed several areas of drainage problems and asked the auditors to study his report and make additions if areas where problems exist were not included.

Bills through July 19 were ordered paid. They included $1,239 from the town fund, $2,406 from the road and bridge fund and $631 from general assistance.

He will serve a one-year training period in the United States, and then will be subject to worldwide assignments.

Mr. Edwards is a graduate of Granite City High School, class of 1966, and served four years in the U.S. Air Force. He has a B.A. degree in Social Welfare from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He was president of the student social work association and did volunteer work with children and family services.

It brought the activity for the month so far at 34 permits with values of $88,350.

GC eligible for flood insurance

Granite City has qualified to participate in the federal flood insurance program in which residents may obtain flood insurance on both residential and non-residential properties. Mayor Paul Schuler announced yesterday.

The mayor said he was notified of the city's qualification for the program by the Department of Housing and Urban Development on the basis of legislative action taken by the City Council six weeks ago.

Schuler said the National Flood Insurance Association has designated State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. of Bloomington as the "servicing company" from which insurance firms wishing to issue policies may obtain information on rates, forms, manuals and procedural data.

The federal approval includes eligibility of residential and non-residential properties, the mayor said. Rates will range from 25 to 60 cents per $100 coverage on residential properties and from 35 to 45 cents per $100 on contents of residential properties. Insurance on contents will be limited to $5,000.

Insurance on non-residential properties have been fixed at 75 cents per $100. The insurance will become effective immediately upon issuance of policies for the first 30 days of the city's authorization. Thereafter there will be a 15-day waiting period.

To qualify for the insurance the city complied with a number of federal requirements, including the appointment of the city inspector to work with the program administrator in delineating the limits of areas having special flood hazards on local maps, and identification of building sites. The city also agreed to maintain for public inspection elevations of the lowest floors of all new or substantially improved structures in each area having a special flood hazard, and to cooperate with federal, state and local agencies or private firms which undertake studies of flood areas or mudslide areas.

favorable than no deposit bottles, yet are much better ecology-wise. Why can't we reverse the trend of throwing everything away and instead start saving things? There is no reason why we can't go the other route as we did during World War II."

Pie added that melting plastic and glass is a great energy waste, and predicted that in the future, this energy would be used to produce heat in large cities.

Currently there are 33 people employed statewide in the Division of Land Pollution Control. They are involved in inspecting landfills to see that they meet Pollution Control Board regulations, investigating complaints, and putting together enforcement cases against violators.

Variances granted in fiscal year 1971 totaled 37. In fiscal year 1972, 40 variances were granted. Pie explained that the number of variances granted in 1973 is down due to the closing of the 400 illegal dumps in the past two years. He pointed out that even more would be closed in the near future.

"It is simple for us to solve a case. If we find a land fill that is violating regulations, all we have to do is take pictures two days in a row, so it's easy to prove.

"Industries are beginning to help out so land pollution is not as big a problem as it was pollution."

EPA ears are open to noise pollution

SPRINGFIELD — To most of us, noise is a nuisance. To the Environmental Protection Agency, noise is pollution.

The Division of Noise Pollution Control is the infant of the EPA as it is the newest department and also the smallest.

According to John Moore, division manager, 10 people currently are employed in the division. Most are engineers and the division also has a fulltime lawyer.

The division, located in Springfield, operates largely in the Chicago area as most complaints received come from there. As the division grows, Moore pointed out that other regional offices will be set up throughout the state.

"Noise control is the newest field in the EPA. Not many states are involved in noise control so we are ahead of most states. Illinois currently has the largest noise control staff of any state."

"We soon anticipate our staff to be the size of the federal government's Division of Noise Control."

The Federal Noise Act of 1972 allows the state and local governments to bear the responsibility of community noise. Moore explained that his division will be concerned with noise control in four broad ways:

- (1) Stationary sources of noise such as that produced by factories and industrial air conditioners, and occurs within fixed boundaries.
- (2) Ground transportation noise produced by cars, trucks, buses, motorcycles, etc.
- (3) Construction noise produced by piledrivers, jackhammers, and earth-moving equipment, and
- (4) Airport noise.

Noise can permanently ruin hearing without causing pain. Noise also causes physiological changes in the body.

"We are looking at behavior patterns to see what effect noise has on the body," Moore related.

"Our division is not directly involved in research, but we utilize the University of Illinois task force on noise, composed of scientists, engineers, and lawyers."

Noise is measured in units called decibels. Such sounds as rustling leaves produce about 10 decibels, whereas an electric typewriter at 6 feet produces about 70 decibels and riding inside a sports car at 50 miles per hour, one would experience about 80 decibels.

The decibel scale is logarithmic, meaning each additional 10 decibels increases loudness tenfold. For example, 80 decibels or the noise produced from household appliances at close range, is 10 times louder than 70 decibels or the noise produced from a symphony orchestra.

Ninety decibels is also the danger level at which continuous exposure can cause permanent loss of hearing.

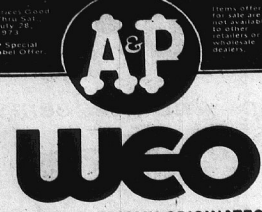

But can the problem of noise be solved? Moore believes so. "The techniques for solving the problem run from shutting a window to installing $100,000 worth of equipment."

Moore admitted that noise pollution has been getting worse, but that a new program is being established to test noise levels in several key noise climates in the state, to see if the situation is improving.

"People are now more concerned about noise," Moore related. "Our job will be to try to control noise the average citizen has no control over. The program is not designed for a homeowner-to-homeowner relationship. Lawnmowers, for example, are a local issue, not ours."

The proposed noise regulations are based on the actual use land is being put to, not the zoning concept involved. In the standard land use classification, land is either industrial, residential, business, or a variation of the three.

The division also offers variances to those who will not immediately be able to comply with the regulations. "Our provision for variances is open to everyone. An individual or industry is given 12 months to three years to comply. This keeps us from prosecuting those who have done a good job."

Water agency active

SPRINGFIELD — Water usage per person can be high as 60 gallons a day in rural Illinois and as much as 300 gallons per person in the industrial parts of the state.

It is the job of the Division of Public Water Supplies of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to see that we have that water available.

The Division of Public Water Supplies is responsible for surveillance of public water supplies on a statewide basis, making inspections to see that water treatment plants are properly maintained and operated, writing reports on the conditions found, making suggestions for better operation, and filing enforcement actions against those in violation of the regulations.

The division also is involved in operator training for the public water treatment plants. An operator must go through a training program and then pass an exam before he is certified.

As of July 1, 1970, there were 1,772 certified operators in public water supply treatment plants throughout the state. As of February 23, 1973, that number had risen to 2,064.

Chemical and bacteriological samples of the water supplies are taken to make sure the water is satisfactory for human use. If the water doesn't meet the standards set by the Pollution Control Board, enforcement action is taken by the Attorney General.

John Anderson, manager of the Division of Public Water Supplies, explained that there are 1,680 public water supplies in the state and over 500 of these water supplies have some sanitary defect.

Some of these defects include such things as improper construction of the system, wells that aren't adequately protected, improper screening of vents, inadequate storing facilities, or an open reservoir.

Last year seven enforcement cases were filed, and of the seven, decisions were rendered in five.

Anderson stressed that Public Water Supplies, along with all EPA programs, prefers to offer help and services to local communities who might have a problem in conforming to Illinois standards. Enforcement cases, he explained, are a last resort, and are used only after all attempts at solving the problems are ineffective.

"We have had a history of no enforcement," Anderson related. "Things had to get really bad before we would take action. We are now becoming much more aggressive in surveillance and enforcement."

"People have become complacent," Anderson continued. "We have generally had a good quality of water. We tend to make jokes about drinking water in Europe, but the quality of water in Europe is probably better than in our small towns."

Anderson added that our bigger water supplies are generally better than our smaller ones. He listed as reasons for the complacency about our water, that we have had no outbreaks of disease, and little enforcement of the regulations.

"Better enforcement action and our operator training program will help upgrade our water. In some instances, water quality is better today than it was five years ago."

On the other hand, Anderson admitted that his division often has to issue boil orders. "Not a month goes by without a mechanical failure of a water system takes place, and it becomes necessary to boil the water."

The procedure of enforcing water regulations consists of first reporting the defect in the water supply to the violator. If the defect is not corrected, evidence is gathered, and an enforcement file is prepared and reviewed by an attorney.

The attorney then writes a warning letter to those in charge of the defective water supply, explaining that the division is considering legal action. Then, if nothing is done, the case goes before the Pollution Control Board.

New theatres to open Friday

Mid-America Theatres, a St. Louis based entertainment company, today announced Friday as the opening date for the Nameoki Cinema I & II, in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center on Nameoki Road.

The twin theatre, with 300 seats in each auditorium, was designed and built by Martin Bloom Associates for Jim Henderson, developer of the shopping center, who is leasing it to Mid-America Theatres.

A second phase of construction, in which two additional auditoriums will be added, is tentatively planned for the summer of 1974. First films are to be shown at the new theatre.

The lobby areas are completely paneled with Walnut veneer in the auditoriums. The auditoriums are decorated with Soundfield draperies. One has orange and brown alternating draperies, chocolate brown seating with aise carpeting of Highland Red Scotch Plaid, while the other is decorated in red and beige alternating draperies, chocolate brown seating and the same color in aise carpeting. Lobbies are fully carpeted with the Highland Red Scotch Plaid look.

Both theatre booths are equipped with the latest in automation, 35 projector Ballantyne of Omaha. All components in the VIP-35 are installed, pre-wired and tested, at the Ballantyne factory instead of the theatre and shipped in heavy haulers to the theatre ready to go for operation.

The projection equipment was supplied by Ringold Cinema Equipment Co. The stereo sound equipment by Altec-Lansing was installed by the Altec Sound Service Co.

The lobby concession stand in the new theatre was specially designed by Stein Woodcraft of New York, consisting of a cretor popper and warmer, counter of cimmerian leather and absenue suede finish, touched off with an antique hutch, dark stain finished.

The restrooms are fully tiled and equipped with vanity type wash basins.

Tom Elliott has been assigned by Mid-America Theatres as manager. He has been with the organization for over a year as relief manager. His residence is in Cahokia.

Elliott and his wife Shirley have three children, Belinda, Tom Jr. and Danny.

He has been in the theatre business since 1958 and was formerly located in Miami Beach, Fla. where he worked for Griffith Enterprises.

Opening in Cinema I will be "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid" and at Cinema II "Class of '44".

Flood control system challenged

Following is testimony by the Coalition for the Environment, an unofficial group, on the proposed L-15 levee in Missouri:

The Coalition for the Environment feels great concern and sympathy for the people who suffered losses from the flood this spring. We are especially concerned for the farmer who is caught between the dilemma of flood damage and rising taxes.

However after much study we feel there are serious questions about the long-range benefits from building a levee.

1. Every independent group which has studied the flood control program, including the 1966 Presidential Task Force and the National Water Commission, has said, "This program has been a dismal failure."

Statistics show that during thirty odd years the program has been in effect, and after approximately $8 billion have been spent on flood control, losses from floods have continued to increase, hitting a peak of about $3 billion in 1972.

Both the Presidential Task Force and the National Water Commission recommend that we reverse our whole philosophy about trying to control rivers and keep them out of their flood plains, and instead keep man and his urban structures out.

2. The flood this year proved that levees and other works of man in the flood plain cause the flood crest to go higher.

This year's flood crest of 49,000 cubic feet per second was 8.23 feet higher on the St. Louis gauge than the 40,000 cubic feet per second in 1908 before all the levees and other construction.

The problem may be of even greater magnitude in the future because of the possibility of increased precipitation.

All the flood information is based on an 800-year period of time in which the world was experiencing increased dryness.

On April 26, 1973, in St. Louis, Dr. Luna Leopold, senior hydrologist for the U. S. Geological Survey, stated that since the 1950s we have entered a period of increased wetness and storminess, and no one knows how long this particular phenomenon will last.

So if this levee is built, other communities will be flooded more.

For example in a sworn deposition taken by our attorney for the Coalition's Earth City suit, Mr. Swanson, a hydraulics engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, said that if the L-15 were built, St.

Louis County would be flooded more than it is now.

He said that if the L-15 and the R-50 were both built, about four feet of water would be pouring over Interstate 70 into Earth City in a standard design flood.

He also said the L-10 levee is about seven feet lower than the standard design levee.

So we have a levee race ending in a huge tragedy when the levees are overtopped, like the 100-year levee at Wilkes Barre, Pa., last year.

A friend who was there this spring said the levee was not only overtopped but was also ruptured. And when a big levee breaks, the destruction is tremendous.

For instance, the floodwaters at Wilkes Barre deposited three feet of mud instead of the two or three inches deposited here in places. Large areas were gouged out, and coffins popped out of the ground and were floating around.

3. Even though a 25-year or 50-year agricultural levee is now proposed, past experience and present proposals of a canal, a port and a huge industrial complex by Judge Darby Talley of St. Charles County lead us to believe that the pressures for profit would cause industrialization.

The East Side Levee started out as a 50-year agricultural levee, and then was increased to a 100-year as the area was urbanized.

The tragedy is that these farmers who sincerely want to continue farming will inevitably be forced out by the higher taxes.

And so we will end up with another half-industrialized "no man's land" like the East Side flood plains.

4. Levees do not prevent ground water problems for the farmer during times of flood or heavy rain.

Harvey Louie Stumpf, who farms land on the American Bottoms flood plain behind the East Side Levee, said he was not able to get his crops in this spring even though the flood water was kept out by the levee, because the ground water table and rain water combined to flood the low sections of his field and make the rest too wet to farm.

Perhaps crop insurance would be a better aid than the levees, plus moving homes into two or three villages on higher ground which can be protected by a circle levee.

In conclusion, we think the above facts justify the recommendations of the National Water Commission that the whole flood control program is questionable.

We request that Congress authorize an independent agency or organization to re-evaluate the Pick-Sloan plan in general, Mississippi-Missouri River confederacy area in particular, with reference to the hydraulics, preservation and enhancement of existing resources such as the best agricultural soils, recreational values of the waterway flyway, and boating on the rivers of the area.

become available," Secretary Butz said.

"Agricultural exports are a prime source of foreign exchange with which to buy our national energy supplies and other critical needs. Controls on exports of U.S. farm products, which are vital to the world, disrupt foreign economies and our relationships with foreign nations. By increasing our agricultural production we can continue to maintain our much-needed food as a positive peace initiative."

Butz pointed out the changes made in government farm programs last fall and this spring have helped increase farm plantings nine per cent this year. "We are now projecting record harvests for feed grain, wheat, and soybeans this year, up 6, 13 and 24 per cent respectively, from a year earlier."

"We will do all we can to help farmers minimize harvest losses this fall and get a head start on next year's farm production plans," Secretary Butz said.

"I am asking private farm suppliers, farm cooperatives, farm organizations, commodity groups and others to join in a nation-wide effort to provide supplies, storage, credit, transportation and other help to farmers in this all-out production effort."

Butz has designated the Extension Service to organize a nation-wide informational campaign to back up these actions.

"If we have a feed grain harvest this fall of the size now anticipated, and if we have an adequate crop in 1974, we will avoid export controls on grains. We expect to lift all export controls when the 1973 crops intervening years he earned the title of "the champion of recordings" with more than 45,000,000 Kostelanetz albums purchased by the public.

PENSION HIKE RISES

The latest hike in Social Security benefits, effective in July 1974, will be 5.9 per cent instead of an earlier 5.6 per cent estimate, officials in Washington report. The reason is a rise of 7-10 of 1 per cent in the consumer price index issued Friday.

Butz assures adequate food supplies

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, following up President Nixon's Phase IV economic announcements, has made a series of moves to assure adequate supplies of food for domestic and export markets.

Butz announced that there would be no government set-aside of land in 1974 for feed grains, soybeans, wheat and cotton. This will free about 19 million additional acres for production in 1974.

"Farmers will be free to go all-out to produce feed grains, soybeans, wheat and cotton next year and can make these plans now," Butz said. "With grain and cotton prices at current levels, and with the possibility of contracting to sell 1974 harvests at strong prices, I have every confidence that farmers will respond to this opportunity."

"The actions taken in Phase IV to assure farmers of a fair return on poultry, pork, beef and milk will improve prospects those commodities so the farmers can plan for profitable production."

Kostelanetz to return to festival on Sunday

Conductor Andre Kostelanetz will return to the Mississippi River Festival for the third consecutive season to lead the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

An annual favorite at the festival, Kostelanetz has chosen a program of popular classical music which includes works by Saint-Saens, de Falla, Liszt, Rimsky-Korsakov and Offenbach.

Kostelanetz first appeared with the St. Louis Symphony 30 years ago. At that time, in addition to guest conducting, he was best known for his classical music radio programs. In the National Steel Corporation increased earnings 30 per cent during the second quarter of 1973, as compared with the second quarter of 1972. Chairman George A. Stinson reported Monday in Pittsburgh. Granite City Steel Company is a subsidiary of National Steel. Shipments in the second quarter were 20 per cent above those of the 1972 second quarter.

Net income totaled $27,655,502, equal to $1.48 per share, compared with $21,553,545, or $1.14 per share for the second quarter of 1972. First half profit in 1973 was $47,314,182, equal to $2.53 per share, compared with $36,176,679, or $1.94 per share for 1972's first six months.

"Higher earnings in the second quarter and first half were due in substantial part to a marked increase in steel shipments," Stinson said.

"It is apparent, however, that rapid increases in cost of goods and services we buy, which have not been offset by price increases, are depressing our profit margins."

"Despite record shipments, our profit on sales was 4.5 per cent in the 1973 first half, compared with 4.4 per cent for the comparable period of 1972."

"These results illuminate the serious position into which we are being forced," Stinson said. "There has been no price increase on sheet products, which account for a majority of our shipments, since January 1972 despite major cost increases both in the year 1972 and the first six months of 1973.

"Under Phase IV of the economic stabilization program, we will be prohibited from recouping these 1972 cost increases, including the 7 per cent labor cost increase of Aug. 1, 1972."

"Inability to recoup cost increases is not a new phenomenon this year," Stinson added.

"It has been the case in our industry for some time. What makes it so critical now is that it continues during the best steel market in years.

"If we cannot generate capital to meet the oncoming demands facing us from our customers, for more steel, and from the public, for environmental improvement, at a time when we are operating at capacity in an unusually strong market, then we shall be greatly hampered in providing for capital needs in the future."

Shipments totaled 2,310,500 tons during the second quarter, 20 per cent greater than in the comparable 1972 period.

For 1973's first half, shipments totaled 4,670,600 tons, substantially above the previous record first half of 1971, when customer inventories were being raised against a possible steel strike.

Medicare rules drawn for chiropractic care

Regulations governing the conditions under which Medicare can help pay for certain services provided by licensed chiropractors and independent physical therapists have been proposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Under the proposed regulations Medicare will help pay for manual manipulation of the spine only to correct a subluxation which can be shown by x-rays to exist and which has caused a condition for which manipulation is appropriate treatment.

No reimbursement may be made for x-rays or other diagnostic or therapeutic services provided by chiropractors.

To be certified for Medicare reimbursement, chiropractors must be licensed, must have completed an extensive course of study including anatomy, physiology, chemistry and principles and practice of chiropractic, including clinical instruction, and must have passed an examination by the state's chiropractic examiners.

The proposed regulations also provide that Medicare will help pay for services furnished by an independent physical therapist in his office or in the patient's home, up to a maximum of $100 of incurred expenses in a year.

Interested parties have 30 days from June 29, 1973, the date of publication for the proposed regulations in the Federal Register, to submit comments.

Insect damage to soybeans minor

By WARREN W. RUNDY
U.S. Extension Adviser
Holes in soybean leaves caused by insect feeding have caused some concern by some farmers, but the extent of damage in observed fields is minor.

Most of the leaf feeding is by green cloverworms and thistle caterpillars. Full-grown worms are about 1 1/2 inches long.

If damage to soybeans exceeds 30 to 40 per cent defoliation, spraying with toxaphene or carbaryl may be justified. None of the fields observed approach that extent of damage, but like most insect infestations the situation bears watching.

Some alfalfa fields in Madison County were treated last week to control leafhoppers. In the treated fields the bugs had caused severe yellowing of alfalfa plants. Treatment is indicated if swarms of these small (weevils), green, wedge-shaped, flying insects are yellowing the alfalfa.

Illinois entomologists say they have received several reports of black cutworms attacking newly emerged soybeans and soybeans that have not yet emerged in bottomland areas, especially along the Mississippi River.

Look for cut and drying soybeans in the rows, and dig into the soil around cut plants to look for worms. Under dry conditions the insects feed underground and may have cut the seedlings before they had a chance to break through the soil.

If damage is severe, broadcast 20 pounds of a 1 per cent sevin bait per acre. However, of the worms are 1 1/2 to 2 inches long, treatment is not necessary. These worms are fully grown and their feeding period is nearly complete. The entomologists add that black cutworms are also damaging some late-planted cornfields in bottomland areas. Consider treating with sevin bait if you find one worm per 25 plants.

You can have fresh garden vegetables into the fall months by making additional plantings now in the home garden.

Vegetables that may be planted now include Chinese cabbages, green and yellow beans, sweet corn, spinach, beets, broccoli, summer squash, Swiss chard, mustard, kale and turnips.

Radishes and lettuce can be planted as late as August. Leaf lettuce planted after the high mid-summer temperatures moderate will mature nicely during the cooler autumn weather.

High mid-season soil temperatures may in some instances reduce germination of your summer-planted vegetable seed. Frequent watering will keep the germinating seed and the young seedlings from drying out.

Sweetcorn is among the most popular vegetables. It will be extra tasty if you pick it at the right time and then use it promptly. The best time to pick is usually about three weeks after the first silks appear.

Dry silks indicate the corn is nearing maturity. Feel the ears to make sure they are full, including the tips. Then pull the tip of the husk back and look inside. Kernels should be plump and golden in color. Whiteness indicates immaturity unless you've planted a white variety. Puncture several kernels with your fingernail. If the substance that leaks out is milky, the corn is mature. If it is watery, the corn is too young and will lack flavor. A doughy substance indicates the corn already has passed its peak.

When to pick depends on how you like your corn. Some people prefer young corn, others like it more mature.

After harvesting, place the corn in a cool place. Corn stored at 32 degrees F. loses 8 per cent of its sugar content in 24 hours. But corn always tastes better if you eat it immediately after picking.

Fire chief hit by car after fire

A refrigerator motor overheated and triggered the smoke alarm in the house of Rich McIntosh, 212 Hampden St., Venice, at 7:15 p.m. Monday, bringing the Venice Fire Department trucks to the scene. There was no fire.

As the fire trucks were returning to the fire station, in front of Venice City Hall, Fire Chief William Meehan was struck by an auto which was backing into Klein Street as Meehan was crossing the street. He suffered minor injuries. The driver of the car was not identified.

Percy—only one who can defeat Kennedy?

By LESTER BELL
Copley News Service

Percy says he is hardly "elated" but he is "somewhat encouraged" by a Louis Harris poll showing him as the only

Granite City Press-Record
Thurs., July 26, 1973, Page 30

Republican among five top Presidential contenders to run ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy, the acknowledged frontrunner among Democrats.

Percy in the Harris "trial heat" for 1976 polled 46 to Kennedy's 44 per cent in his first such matching with a Democrat.

In earlier reports, Kennedy has been trailed 50 to 42 per cent by Vice President Spiro Agnew, 51 to 41 by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. Ronald Reagan 50 to 44, and 48 to 41 by Republican convert John Connally.

Percy ran fifth behind those four Republicans in a Gallup poll in April. None was matched against Kennedy, the Massachusetts Democrat.

"First of all," Percy said in an interview with Copley News Service, "it's a surprising result to me."

Percy said the most "important part" of the Harris poll was his "strong run in the Middle West."

The showing against Kennedy has no immediate impact on his plans, he said. Had it developed that he was the only Republican who didn't have a chance against Kennedy, then "that would have ended the exploratory committee."

Percy has a committee to help him evaluate his Presidential chances. He said there will be no final decision until the end of 1973 and the Harris poll has not affected that timetable.

While the poll showed him stronger in the Midwest, he squeezed past Kennedy 44 to 43 in the South and dropped behind 48 to 41 in the East and 46 to 42 in the West.

He said his national recognition showing "has to be overcome."

After all, he pointed out, he "wasn't known from a pine door Downstate in Illinois" when he entered politics.

He has two trips planned to the West that are not part of this. He is going to Oregon to campaign for his friend, Sen. Bob Packwood, and to California at some unscheduled time.

"In California," he said, "one of the factors is name recognition alone."

Percy said he will study further barometers of opinion as he assesses his chances for the Republican nomination in 1976.

One of the most important indicators will be how Republicans around the country feel about his potential candidacy.

"It's very important that we do have indications of strong support in the Middle West," he said. "I want to get a feel for the other parts of the country."

He said he wants to know what is important to them, do they believe he has a chance to win, and could they support him although his opinion may be somewhat different from theirs.

But above all, to Percy the poll has revealed one thing, and that "loud and clear." Whether they are Democrats, Independents or Republicans, "People want someone who stands up for his convictions."

WORLD'S BIGGEST HAMBURGER? —Sandy Morgan, a sophomore in elementary education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, expresses understandable amazement at a 150-pound "hamburger" which is the creation of Dan Anderson, instructor in art and design at SIUE. Anderson, who has been doing research in the application of imagery in ceramics, has been working recently on three dimensional subjects in natural colors. He said he was inspired to make a "super-hamburger" because he believes the hamburger is replacing apple pie as "the old traditional American institution." A functional item, the ceramic hamburger has a removable top and can be used as a decorative piece or hassock. Other items Anderson has produced in the three-dimensional series include soft drink bottles and french fries. (SIUE Photo)

SITTING IN A CORNER in this case means a special learning opportunity for a youngster in the Summer Remediation and Recreation Program being offered on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The "booth" keeps the child from being distracted by other youngsters in the room. Helping the boy with a reading problem is Donna Skirball, an SIUE graduate student from Granite City. Forty-eight children from Madison and southern Macoupin counties are enrolled in the program. (SIUE Photo)

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Mann's live band mixes rock with jazz and blues

By JUDY HUGG
Capley News Service

For over two years, almost without recognition from American consumers or audiences, a musical genius in England has been working up a new and exciting rock band which will stun many who knew him before.

The genius is Manfred Mann along with his relatively new Earth Band who recently hit the states to lend support to their latest, and by far the best album yet, called "Get Your Rocks" on Polydor Records.

Manfred has been around for many years now but it is on this album that his distinctive musical style begins to assert itself, effectively combining rock and his previous influences of jazz and blues, giving each cut a powerful impact.

"Having just gone through a jazz period, I just wanted a band that was versatile and could handle many of the new things I've had on my mind," he recalled recently in Chicago. "In the beginning I had no preconceived ideas about how we should sound, but as it developed it grew into a 'live band,' one which has been accepted better on stage than on record. But I think that's a good sign because I like to play for the people and know how they react to what we're doing."

This status has already started to change with the release of "Rocks" as it has already climbed high on the charts in just a few short weeks. The power of this is its captivating "live sound" in comparison to the Earth Band's two previous LPs which were collections of studio-type songs.

"I like our being a live band for two main reasons," he said. "First of all, we can really stretch out with cuts like "Messin'" and "Buddah" which had to be kept to 10 and 7 minutes on the LP but will often run 15 to 20 minutes on stage. I think that's one of the advantages of being live—the repetition in a long song doesn't get boring like it might on record. Another advantage is the fact that we can control the volume of what we play. We tend to change dynamics a lot from loud to very soft and are not limited by a volume knob on someone's stereo."

Although Manfred seems to be stoked over his live band, he still realizes the importance of singles, albums and airplay. But he is an honest musician who has paid his dues and sticks to his theory that many bands today should be heard but not seen and that many should stick strictly to live performances since they can't effectively go over on records. This same idea is carried over in his writing.

"I think I write some things well and those we put on the album, but I'm not a prolific writer who can sit down and turn out LP after LP. However, I don't want to misjudge my own writing abilities so I stick mainly to the thing I do best which is arranging."

Manfred has the uncommon ability of listening to a song and being able to completely divorce the words from the music, leaving him just the skeleton to go on, or he can sit and rearrange a song in his head while he is listening to it being played. Bob Dylan's songs, such as the title cut on the album, are a good example of his talent.

"I don't know why I do so many of Dylan's things; it's not a conscious thing but I like his stuff," he admitted. "The sort of thing he writes tends to lend itself to a much heavier treatment than he gives them and a lot of people seem to miss this angle of his material. Dylan gives them a soft sound but I can hear a good rock arrangement in them so I arrange them that way and they just seem to fit."

A couple of other things that seem to fit are the musicians in the Earth Band. They are Nick Rogers, guitar and vocals; Colin Pattenden on bass guitar; Chris Slade on organ and synthesizer. With the album "Get Your Rocks" Manfred has created a very special approach to rock that few others have managed to achieve. Besides the Dylan cut, he has included a great rendition of John Prine's "Pretty Good," Mike Hugg's "Messin'" from an unreleased Chapter 3 LP, Dr. John Creaux's "Mardi Gras Day" and his own "Sadjoy," "Buddah" and "Cloudy Eyes." It's the type of album that gets better and better with each listening.

County records improved; further changes recommended in magistrate division, highway department, tax distribution

"Records of the various county offices and funds have been substantially improved since 1964, and the officials responsible for the improvement should be complimented."

We echo this praise, voiced by R. C. Scheffel and Company, certified public accountants, in their newly-completed Madison County governmental audit for the year ending Nov. 30, 1972.

Attention also should be given to the recommendations for improvement, including the circuit clerk magistrate division, where one office had a $2,900 shortage that was reimbursed.

As noted by Scheffel, "All the area magistrate offices (should) maintain uniform accounting records. We recommend that the accounting supervision over all divisions be improved, and that routine internal examinations be made to determine that all systems, reports and internal controls are being properly maintained."

"In this connection, it would appear to be essential that the circuit clerk establish procedures assuring prompt forwarding of all funds, rather than at the whim of the various branch offices."

Another recommendation worthy of note is one regarding the highway department: "A rubber stamp containing all the signatures of the Road and Bridge Committee is used to approve claims of the department. We suggest that either this rubber stamp be placed under dual control or the committee members sign each claim manually."

The accountants cite $10,751,787 under investment, producing "substantial income" at interest rates ranging from 3 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent, based on the size of the invested sums.

"There were still some excess funds on hand at various times during the year which could have been invested if the county officials had the legal right to do so."

"The only funds with significant uninvested cash balances at Nov. 30 were Collector (Account No. 3) with $972,850 in checking and Special Funds Held in Trust with $248,855 inheritance taxes, $409,044 special deposits and $904 unknown heir fund."

Other points included:

"There are insufficient accounting controls over fixed assets."

"We recommend that all state's attorney travel, office expense and administrative expense be paid only through normal claim procedures."

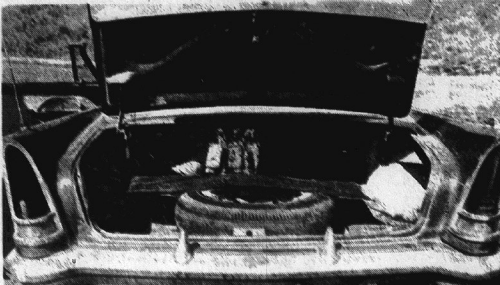

"Centralized accounting would eliminate the need for similar equipment at several offices, resulting in more efficient record-keeping."

"We recommend that the routine monthly tax distribution of tax collection funds be disbursed more rapidly, resulting in a smaller final distribution."

"All township road and bridge fund tax distributions should be routinely, independently, calculated by employees of the collector's office."

"We recommend that the Delinquent Tax Department establish accounting control over all unpaid taxes."

A final comment in the audit is that, with the county's equity in general operating funds falling by $399,000 in 1970-71 and by another $1,366,000 in 1971, "it is obvious that it is necessary to adhere to realistic budgets if further deficits are to be prevented."

People-smuggling is $125 million racket

Every night about 8 p.m. Mexicans start coming over the border into the United States.

Most of them don't have anything in their pockets but a few pesos, a pack of Mexican cigarettes and a handkerchief.

They may also have a little piece of paper in their pockets, and on it might be a name, or perhaps just a location. That's where the smugglers will pick them up and carry them by car or truck in the dead of night to Los Angeles or Chicago or some other big city.

"Alien smuggling is more lucrative now than narcotics smuggling," said Steve Nelson, assistant U.S. attorney.

"There's more money in it and less risk. And it's a vicious, violent practice, because the smugglers don't treat the aliens as human beings. They treat them as merchandise, something to be disposed of."

The Border Patrol is going to catch 500,000 Mexicans trying to sneak into the United States this year, a 22 per cent increase over 1972. Half of them or more will be aided by smuggling rings involving hundreds of people on both sides of the border, and reportedly some big-name businessmen. Uncounted other aliens will escape the patrol and disappear into the big cities.

There are at least two million Mexicans now in the United States illegally.

"There's no secret about why the aliens are coming into this country," said federal court Judge Gordon Thompson Jr. of California, who may handle several hundred smuggling cases this year.

"All you have to do is stand at the border near Tijuana. On one side you'll see people living in cardboard shanties in grinding poverty. The average salary may be $1 a day."

"And on the other side you'll see San Diego, Calif., and the United States. It looks like paradise to those people."

The Border Patrol, desperately undermanned, is trying to control the aliens. But in one 80-mile stretch of the border, for example, there may be only 25 border patrolmen on duty at any time, out of the 1,500 that must cover both the Canadian and Mexican borders.

"We're swamped," said Dale Swancutt, a spokesman for the Border Patrol. "The number of aliens entering the United States from Mexico on just this one stretch of border alone (near San Diego) will total as much as 200,000 this year. It was 92,400 last year."

The unemployment rate is as high as 65 per cent in some parts of Mexico, and a Mexican peasant earns only about $160 a year.

Smugglers, knowing a good thing when they see it, are recruiting aliens from throughout Central and South America to make the long journey to the United States for better jobs. For a fee, of course.

"The fee, just for hopping the border, is $200 to $300 a head," said Swancutt. "It goes up for 'extra,' like false documents."

Once the smuggler takes the alien into the United States, he doesn't let him go. If the alien makes it alive to Los Angeles, or Chicago, or one of the cities of Wisconsin or Illinois (or, for that matter, to any one of the nation's large cities, all of which are havens for aliens) then he must pay the smuggler "protection money" not to be handed over to the Border Patrol.

The smuggling racket's minimum take is estimated at $125 million a year. And it takes jobs away from American workers — at least $100 million a year, and 50 times higher according to some estimates.

FLESH PEDDLERS

Death waited along live cargo route

While some Mexicans may look on "people smuggling" as a game — a lot like hide-and-seek — for the smugglers it's a deadly serious operation.

Some are even willing to kill for it — like a young smuggler who was carrying a load of seven Mexicans in his car to Los Angeles.

Fifty miles north of the border he saw that the Border Patrol checkpoint at San Clemente was in operation — so he decided to lighten his load.

Slowing his car slightly, he forced the aliens to jump out onto the freeway.

Two were killed immediately and the rest were hospitalized.

"There's a lot of two-bit smugglers who get into business, find out there's a lot of money in it, and then start expanding their operations," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Steve Nelson.

"The only way you can cut off the flow of aliens into the country is to cut off the supply of jobs here — by making it illegal to hire illegal aliens."

"Right now a smuggler knows he can earn a lot of money, and even if he's caught the sentences are pretty light compared to, say, narcotics smuggling."

One of the biggest alien smuggling operations yet discovered was run by two U.S. citizens, John Harding of Los Angeles and Medina (Mondo) Bernal, owner of the A and B Transfer Co. of Los Angeles.

They would rent a truck and find drivers who would go down to the border to meet groups of aliens ranging upwards from 45 who had been guided over by one of the smugglers (called, fittingly, "the guide." Drivers of trucks loaded of illegal aliens are called "mules" in smuggler's slang).

In Los Angeles, the aliens would wait for the truck to be forced to get the money any way they could — sometimes at the point of a gun.

The system worked well for some time, pulling in profits of as much as $120,000 a trip. Then on April 10, 1972, the roof fell in.

The night before two of Harding's men, Felipe Rondares and Richard Jimenez, had picked up a load of 60 aliens at Pine Valley, Calif. Heading north on Interstate 5, the main artery between San Diego and Los Angeles, they decided to pull off to the side of the road and catch some sleep. They wanted to wait until the Border Patrol checkpoint (a few miles north at San Clemente) was filled with cars.

The only difference between this and earlier operations was that they had no "scout car" this time to go ahead of them and make sure the way was clear. Some smugglers use scouts on motorcycles or in cars, equipped with walkie-talkies, to determine if the checkpoint is closed or not. They only send through loads when it's closed.

At 10 a.m. the truck driven by Rondares and carrying 60 aliens was driven into the San Clemente checkpoint.

Officers there, noticing that the truck was heavily loaded with what appeared to be a full load of furniture, directed it to move onto some scales to be weighed.

When they looked in past the furniture that had been piled up as camouflage, they saw the aliens — most of them nearly suffocated in the hot truck, sitting in their own defecation.

Jimenez, who was later granted probation, spilled the beans on the whole operation. Harding got seven years. Mondo got five. Two other major defendants (one of whom was a Mexican-American leader) got three years.

But while Mondo and Harding have been caught, their accomplices below the border have not. And the tide of illegal aliens into the United States continues, marked by extortion, fear and death.

Temperature tops 90 for 20 days in row

JULY 26, 1923
With temperatures on the streets of Granite City hovering between 90 and 100 degrees for the past 20 consecutive days, July 1923 will go on record as the hottest in this city for a number of years.

A fire, which followed an explosion of a still in a house on McCambridge Avenue, east, in the house, plus the damage to the place. Madison firemen, after extinguishing the blaze, discovered a large quantity of moonshine, mash, etc., in the house, plus the remains of a still.

It was about 1 a.m. on May 1, 1923, and in five minutes the four border agents had six Mexicans in custody. And 30 minutes later, with the aid of one or two Mexicans they had captured, they had found 12 of the remaining 13 aliens and captured them too.

"It's a game," said Kirk, a tough young Border Patrol agent with a big grin on his face and one hand firmly grasping the collar of a Mexican's coat. "It's like hide-and-seek. No, it's like fishing. We catch them tonight, and we throw them back over the border, and tomorrow night we get a chance to catch them again."

Just a handful of border agents are guarding any given section of the Mexican border. There are only 1,500 agents on both the Mexican and Canadian borders.

When you realize that, you realize why the Border Patrol agents are sworn along the border like so many fishhooks tend to think of their job as a game — a game with deadly serious implications which somehow seem to fall apart when you catch a drunken, grinning alien who you caught last week, and the week before, and the week before that.

Lake Pedro, who was found one dark night recently, making his way across a darkened field with four of his friends, one mile from the border. "Caught me again!" he grinned happily.

"What have you been drinking, Pedro?" asked a smiling agent.

"Coke," said Pedro. "But it's not the best Coke."

"Oh? What's the best Coke?"

"The kind you get in L. A.," said Pedro with a grin as his four friends leached. Los Angeles — like other big U.S. cities — is where all the Mexicans want to go.

Winfield locks to test new schedule

In a move designed to test reduction of delays at Lock 25, Winfield, Mo., the Corps of Engineers has announced a schedule for handling pleasure craft exclusively at specified times on weekends.

The Corps has established recreation craft lock times at four half-hour periods weekends and holidays during August and September.

According to the schedule issued to navigation interests, no commercial vessels will be allowed through the lock from 9 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., from noon to 12:30 p.m.; from 4 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.; or from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

These times are specifically for the pleasure boater. At all other times and during week-end normal lock priorities will be observed.

The Corps said the procedure was being installed to cut down on waiting time for both commercial and recreation craft. Lockages of pleasure craft have been on the increase over the past few years, especially at the head of the Alton Pool.

The Corps is requesting comments from boaters after the operations for designated time schedules has been in effect. Colonel Guy E. Jester, District Engineer, St. Louis District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, said that the Corps would appreciate statements sent to the District office, 210 North 10th Street, St. Louis, Mo. 63101.

Miss Kim Bulla, a sister of the groom, was a junior bridesmaid and Tracy Dunham, a niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

The adult attendants selected formal-length, blue chiffon dresses designed with butterfly ruffled sleeves and a ruffled flounce at the hemline.

They held white Chantilly lace fans festooned with blue carnations and white ribbons.

Both the junior bridesmaid and flower girl were dressed alike in blue fleeced floral sheer frocks and carried small fans.

The groom chose Mark Focke as his best man. Groomsmen were Randy Cox, Jeff Nunn, a cousin of the groom Rob Morio, Kenny Brown, a brother-in-law of the bride and Gary Reiford, Dennis and David Reid seated the guests and Bart Dunham, a nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was given at the Croatian Home in Madison immediately following the service.

College enrollment dropping in state

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copy News Service

Springfield — Total head-count in Illinois institutions of higher education continue to drop, according to a report compiled by the University of Illinois.

The trend does not appear to be changing except in the area of junior colleges. Total headcount in the 148 institutions used in the compilation was 468,180 in 1970, 458,907 in 1971 and 439,108 in 1972. This represents a drop of some 27,000 students. If the trend continues, figures for this fall enrollment may be some 40,000 fewer than projected by the State Board of Higher Education some 16 months ago.

Of state universities, private schools and public junior colleges, only the latter appears to be experiencing a growth in enrollment. A full-time equivalent of 106,000 students has been recorded. This represents an increase of 42,000 over the past five years.

However, enrollment in Illinois' two new senior colleges, institutions accepting only junior and seniors, experienced an increase of only about half that number, 24,000 during that time. This accounts for a rise to 153,000 in 1972.

The sharpest decline has been felt by the state universities. Only three institutions, University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago, Western University at Macomb and Illinois State University at Normal, have indicated a rise in enrollment during the past three years.

The sharpest declines have been felt by Southern Illinois (both Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses) and Northern Illinois at DeKalb. In 1971 their enrollment reached an all-time high of 35,300 at SIU and 22,819 at NIU. This fall, their total enrollment is expected to be about 30,000.

Total enrollment last year for Illinois' private schools was 106,000, and they may expect only a slight drop this year. For the past five years, enrollment in this category has pretty much maintained the status quo. Private institutions experiencing a gain in headcount during the past two years include DePaul and Roosevelt Universities at Chicago, the University of Chicago, Augustana College at Rock Island and Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington. Sharp declines have been felt by the Illinois Institute of Technology at Chicago and Millikin University at Decatur.
